Crider applies for job at Coolidge Jr. High

Granite City — School Board member Alan Crider applied Friday to be principal at Coolidge Junior High School. Crider, 86, confirmed his application Fri-day evening.

The Coolidge job became vacant when Mike Sikora was hired as director of secondary education at the May 20 Board of Education meeting.

"I have considered applying for the job," rider said Thursday. "I'm qualified for the bb. What's wrong with applying if I want."

The position was posted Thursday afternoon by the school district.
Superintendent Max Redmond said that interviewing a board member would create an awkward situation if the member was not recommended for the position.

Redmond said Crider approached him in mid-March and informed him of his intention to seek Sikora's job.
Crider said he had made board members and Redmond aware of his intentions to seek the position prior to Sikora's hiring as director of secondary education.
"I told every board member I would seek this position. That's not to say they would vote for me. They told me if I wanted to approach the seek of th ly, they saw nothing wrong with it," Crider said.

In a Jan. 3 board memorandum, Redmond suggested transferring Sikora to the position. The school board insisted the position be advertised and interviews be conducted.

Crider said that if he were granted an interview, he would resign from the board. He said he would not resign unless he were granted an interview.

Crider was among six board members to vote for Sikora's hiring as secondary education head. The lone dissenting vote came from Gerald McKechan.

"I have II years experience in junior high and four years as an administrator. I'm qualified for the job," Crider said.

After applying for the job, Crider and his attorneys met later Friday afternoon with Redmond and a St. Louis Post-Dispater reporter to discuss an article that had appeared in that newspaper. Crider told the process that led to the opening at Coolidge should have been reported. The reporter said he tried three times to reach Crider prior to the story's printing, but could not. He said the article, partly dealing with Crider's interest in being Coolidge principal, was accurate.

Crider was elected to a two-year term in November 1983.

Board member Alan Crider wants to be a principal in District 9:

District 9.

He told us Friday that he had applied for the job of principal at Coolidge Junior High School. He said he sees nothing wrong with being a district board member applying to be a district principal.

The position Crider wants became open when the board voted to give Michael Sikora, Coolidge principal, the well-deserved promotion to director of secondary education. Crider, who wants to be principal, did not abstain; voted for the promotion.

the promotion.

It worked out conveniently for Crider, who months ago said he wanted to have Sikora's job. Crider's vote helped make the convenient of the c tion to say the deserved promotion for Sikora could mean job for Crider.

At the very least, a board member should have stated the situation during the meeting since many in the district knew crider's desire. It would have erased the appearance of a conflict of interest before the vote. Now, a clest, board the conflict of promoting a deserving man while lining Crider up for a job.

Crider promoting a deserving man while lining Crider up for a job.

Crider should not have applied to be Coolidge principal under these circumstances. Many will wonder if some board members voted with at least the partial intention of helping Crider. And since Crider himself voted to make the job available, his very presence on the board becomes questionable because it has taken on the appearance that his goal is self-gratification rather than public service.

It's time for liquor in the grocery stores

To the editor:
Recently I read an article about the Graite City supermarkets having the ability to sell liquor.
I think it is something that should have been done long ago.
As to most of the people who do not want liquor to be sold in stores;

they don't speak for the majority. It seems to me it's just another platform for them to get a tighter choke on Granite City. We, as the buying public, have a choice. If they do not want to see liquor in stores, stay away from it. You don't hear of people asking to having a religious book store's license taken away. It's called freedom of choice. Now, I am not some devil-worshipping Satanist, but a concerned citizen. I think it's time we let our own choice.

Won't buy food where liquor is sold

I, for one, won't shop in a store where they sell liquor, if it is at all possible.

The acceptance of vulgarity is alarming

To the editor

To the editor:
I am a seventh grade Granite City public school teacher cheerleader sponsor, and Student Council sponsor who is gravely concerned about some behaviors that have apparently become quite acceptable to our society.

Specifically, my colleagues and loften commiscrate regarding the incredibly filthy language coming from the mouths and minds of our 12- and 13-year-old students. Words that were once considered unacceptable for adults are now commonplace vocabulary for my company for the constraints of the constraints should not be redirected. For example, recently I was shopping in an exclusive gift shop in Westport Plaza. I was offended and disgusted to see a register blatantly broadcasting virtually every foul expletive imaginable.

I take offense when our finest stores display and promote the lowest vulgarity and obscenity with wreckless disregard for our youth. It is no wonder my school books, desks, walls and tables are recorated with this language, and the active use of such vocabulary is so commonplace. When this accepting attitude permeates our society, what else can we possibly expects from our youth?

And I would guess the dollars lost because of the threatened boycot-ting of the stores granted liquor licenses will be easily offset by the sale of beer, wine and spirits.

Those who oppose additional licenses, voicing honest concern for the teenagers and/or the general increase in alcohol consumption, seem to be winning few converts.

Newsmen don't become part of the news

The job facing a newsman is to observe and report the news, not to become part of it.

With this in mind, it was a difficult situation when our reporter, Bill Milligan, was questioned in open session by Granite City School Board member Kelly Hogan.

3) Concerning the allegation of teachers reporting autil the following and the source of the committee of the allegation itself is inaccurate. Hogan said we said the committee, was disbanded, but we did not. In a May 15 editorial, this newspaper stated, "A teacher administrator committee's recommendation on a job position is discarded and the board decides the committee should no longer be involved in its original task of resonance."

At the May 20 board meeting, the board hired a director of vocational and a director of secondary education. They did not use the committee, which was formed to

Now that the powerful lobbyists of the insurance, industry have united with the medical profession to push through legislation severely limiting the rights medical malpractice victims, those same lobbyists are uniting with manufacturers and other business people to push for so-called "reforms" in other areas. Their new targets are wide ranging, and include such things as comparative fault principles and the scaffold act, which protects workers from the terrible scaffold act, which protects workers from the use of unsafe scaffolds and other elevated structures. In the months ahead, these 'freform' groups will be lobbying heavily in the legislature and through the media. While all of them will say that they have the average citizen's interest at heart, the attempt to destroy that same citizen's right to meaningful access to the courts, while coincidentally increasing the profits of insurance companies and other businesses, certainly seems a strange way of showing it.

We will be discussing this and other topics on
